INTRODUCTION

About SYPD

Who We Are

Sustainable Development & Peacebuilding Initiatives (SYPD) is a non-profit, non-governmental organization working in South West State, Jubaland State, Hirshabelle State and Galmudug State of Somalia, and in the capital city of Kenya. The SYPD headquarters is located in Mogadishu, the capital city of Somalia along Afisiyoni Street, 2nd Avenue, opposite 21st October Secondary School, Waberi district, Banadir region.

SYPD Background

SYPD was established on 24th August 2004 to alleviate the human suffering in the country. Following the collapse of the Somali government, the country was plunged into a miserable condition characterized by chronic insecurity, massive displacement, and a lack of adequate access to basic human needs such as food, water, and education. Amid this horrific state, a young Somali national established this organization as a way of initiating homegrown, organic solutions to the intractable conflict that besieged the country.

WHERE WE WORK

Geographic Coverage

Over the years, SYPD has established a broad operational footprint across South-Central Somalia and Somaliland. We have grown from our small office room that was serving a neighborhood to a national NGO, offering humanitarian support through our nine area offices in Jowhar, Beledweyne, Buulo-Burte, Jalalaqsi, Matabaan, Mahaas, Bal'ad, Balat-Hawo and Baidoa. We have mobile outreach teams that extend assistance to remote and underserved areas.

In 2024, our key interventions were concentrated in Hirshabelle State (Beledweyne and Buulo-Burte), Southwest State (Baidoa) and Banadir Region (Mogadishu). Our focus in these areas was necessitated by the hardships they faced. The residents of these areas were the hardest hit by floods, conflict and displacement.

In Beledweyne, SYPD deployed two emergency water infiltration machines in El-Jaale to ensure safe drinking water during seasonal floods. In Baidoa, we conducted rapid needs assessments across eight IDP settlements, providing critical data to shape interventions in food security and WASH. This operational spread allowed SYPD to respond quickly to emergencies while also building long-term resilience, reaching both urban IDP camps and rural agro-pastoralist communities.

07 Create a safe space where communities in Africa can gather to discuss and rectify issues of concern to them.

08 Provide sustainable programmes that bridge emergency relief and long-term development at the grassroots level.

09 Respond quickly to both man-made and natural disasters in Africa by providing lifesaving support in the form of food distribution, provision of safe drinking water, shelter and essential non-food items to internally displaced persons.

10 Provide equitable access to basic human needs and combat poverty to minimise the potential for deadly conflicts.

11 Work collaboratively with like-minded organizations and individuals to achieve the organizational mission and objectives.

Our Success Story

SYDP's support transforms Hassan to successful farmer

Fifty-year-old Hassan Ahmed Ali is a father of eight children and lives in Kunturmaley Village in Beledweyne District. Hassan is one of the famers that had benefited from an agricultural inputs package (seeds, irrigation, land preparation, and rehabilitation of market infrastructures through cash for work), a project funded by the German Federal Foreign Office (GFFO) through Diakonie Katastrophenhilfe (DKH) in collaboration with Sustainable development & Peace Building Initiatives (SYPD).

Hassan is an ideal riverine/agro-farmer who relies on planting various crops sequentially on the same piece of land.

Despite losing several of his livestock to the prolonged drought, he has five hectares of land and ten goats. Hassan harvested 135kg of pumpkin which he sold at the local market. Realizing the benefits of the project, Hassan said, "As an Agro-pastoralist farmer, this is a unique and different project especially during this drought spell."

Shedding more light on how the project was different and unique to him, excited Hassan said, "The only reason I and family moved from my village was due to lack of effective farming technologies, which led to a lack of food for my family. We now have food and other needs. I can't believe we have this successful project at our doorstep".

The crops were devastated by the drought, which drastically reduced yields and, eventually, the market value, forcing him to struggle without assistance. Hassan Ahmed discussed his expectations during the start of the project and seemed to be quite happy and passionate about it.

With agricultural support from SYPD in partnership with DKH, he harvested two sacks of Maize, three sacks of cowpeas, 700 kgs of tomatoes and 135 kgs of pumpkins for which he sold at the local market and at good price. Hassan reported the tremendous productivity of his farm is due to the combination of climate smart agriculture support (skill training, irrigation and seed package) and technical support from SYPD.

This has impacted and sustained his family as he also expects higher yield in the coming rainy season. Hassan finally said there is enough food for the family and some money to cater for other family needs.

"I feel like it is a new dawn for us. "Now, my children are going to school, and I can pay their fees. We eat two meals a day compared to the previous one meal. I sincerely thank both SYPD and DKH for making this dream possible," said Hassan confidently.

From Farmhand to Thriving Farmer

Abdi Mohamed Ali, a 39-year-old father of nine from Beledsalaam Village in Beledweyne District, Somalia, is a beneficiary of the Strengthening Resilience to Rising Food Prices project. Funded by the Norwegian Agency for Development Cooperation (NORAD) and implemented by Welthungerhilfe (WHH) in partnership with Sustainable Development and Peace-building Initiatives (SYPD), the project aims to improve the lives of vulnerable households by providing agricultural inputs and canal rehabilitation through Cash for Work programs.

Abdi previously relied on manual labor on others' farms to support his family, but rising food prices and his eventual dismissal left him struggling to meet basic needs. His situation worsened when he lost his job after requesting a salary increase, leaving him without a stable income to feed his family. Abdi narrated that he could not immediately come to terms with his sacking as it was the only job he relied on to fend for his family.

Increased Income

His fortunes changed when WHH and SYPD introduced the NORAD project in his community. Through community mobilization and beneficiary selection committees, Abdi was chosen to receive agricultural inputs, including maize, sorghum, beans, watermelon, lettuce, onion, spinach, tomato, and pepper seeds, as well as hand tools like axes, hoes, wheelbarrows, forks, and spades. He also received fertilizers and support for land preparation, benefiting from the rehabilitation of a nearby canal.

The project's impact was transformative. Despite previous challenges like floods and droughts that damaged his farmland and home, Abdi achieved a bumper harvest. "I was happy after receiving the agricultural inputs and produced higher yields," he said. The surplus allowed him to feed his family and sell the excess, generating income to pay school fees for his nine children and start a small retail business.

Retail Business

Abdi also received training in Good Agricultural Practices (GAP), which improved his farming techniques. "The project gave me agricultural inputs, rehabilitated canals, and provided training. As you can see now, I harvested my maize and processed it," he added. The project not only restored his livelihood but also enabled him to expand his retail business and secure his children's education.

Looking ahead, Abdi hopes to acquire additional skills, such as beekeeping and tomato processing, to further diversify his income. He expressed gratitude to SYPD and WHH for their support, which has empowered him to rebuild his life and provide for his family. "I thank SYPD in relationship with WHH for supporting me and others," optimistic Abdi concluded.
